CST142 – Programming in C Lab #8

Program #1

Create a program that uses a structure array to hold contact information for your friends (name, phone, email, years of friendship). The program should have a menu that allow the user to enter data() up to five friends or print the current entries. Do not print entries that are invalid or null. Have the program loop until the user decides to exit.